

LUNA CITY —OR— BUST!

The way to the stars is open, if we have the daring to take it. Two generations ago, men first crossed the space frontier to reach the nearest of the worlds in the sky. Now is the time for us who desire the stars to take up where they left off, joining our efforts to establish a foothold in the Solar System. Our principal problem now is not technical : it is one of organization and will.

- Permanence
- Near-term feasibility
- A basis for further developments
